IMPRESSIVE ADDRESS BY SIR ARTHUR

To Medical Undergraduate Society Last Night

CANADA'S NEEDS

Principal Deal Particularly With Improvements in the Civil Service

"I do not think that you will ever be able to appreciate the faith, which I for one have in you," stated Sir Arthur Currie, addressing the Medical Undergraduate Society last night. Association with the young men of Canada under various circumstances has given me that faith. "Being university men, you will be looked to as leaders, and belonging to the medical profession you will come into intimate and close relationship with the people of your communities. You will be advisers and friends and will have special and important responsibilities."

Continuing, Sir Arthur spoke of the continual clamour regarding Canada's problems, and the very evident fact that Canadians were not satisfied with the conditions of their country. "I do not know," he said, "how much truth there is in the statement that Canada is surely breaking in two; but the East and the West are falling apart; that the silver chord is being loosened and that the golden bow of interprovincial friendship is being broken."

"Yet the echoes of discord reach us. They come from the provinces down by the sea, the old British provinces of Scottish stock; they are brought on the winds of the prairies from the fields of golden grain; and in the older provinces near us we hear them."

Then the speaker gave the appalling figures of Canadian emigration. Last year, ten thousand left Quebec, and ten thousand left the maritimes. "We are letting the old stock go, the old stock that made this country. There is a problem which demands the attention of the best minds of the Dominion."

Not carping criticism, but constructive criticism is what is wanted he said. "I am going to try tonight and make a contribution of constructive criticism. If it engenders one new thought in your minds, I shall be satisfied."

"In the last ten years great changes have occurred, very often noisily and quietly, and it is only when we place the economic and political facts of 1914 alongside those of 1924 that we are able to appreciate the momentous changes that have been brought about."

Giving official figures, Sir Arthur showed that the population of the west in ten years had increased 50 per cent, while that of the East had increased 15 per cent. Considering the immigration into Canada, "What," he asked, "has become of the natural (Continued on page 4)

VICTORIAS BEATEN 8-1 BY JUNIORS

Abbot and Cameron Were Outstanding Players

VICS OUTCLASSED

Juniors Leading Their Section With Six Straight Wins

Last night at the Loyola rink, the McGill Juniors defeated the Vics by a score of 8-1. The Vics were rather handicapped owing to the fact that they did not have any substitutes. They were nevertheless the distinctly inferior team and never once during the game showed up as well as McGill. The Juniors are at the top of their section having won six straight victories while all the other teams have lost at least two. U. of M. are a poor second with the others far behind.

It was very evident last night, within a few seconds after the face-off, that McGill had the superior team on the ice. Coach Shaughnessy substituted frequently, letting the spurs play nearly as much as the regulars, Mac Cameron being the only McGill man to play full time.

MR. WILLIAMS TO ADDRESS COMMERCIALS

Will Speak on Stock-Exchange Problems

IN UNION AT 8.15

Was Former Financial Editor of the "Star"

Mr. Murray E. Williams, prominent Montreal stockbroker will address the Commercial society at their meeting in the Union Cafeteria this evening on "The Functions of the Stock Exchange."

MURRAY E. WILLIAMS

Speaks to Commercial Society To-night

"The subject is one which no Commerce student can afford to miss and anyone who has heard Mr. Williams speak before will need no urging to be at the meeting. Mr. Williams is in an excellent position to give his audience any amount of information pertaining to the stock market, for not only is he a member of one of the important firms of brokers but was for many years the financial editor of the Montreal Star."

The address will be followed by the usual refreshments and a general get-together. These meetings afford a splendid opportunity for the men and women of the different years to meet and get acquainted with one another. It is noticeable in Commerce that the men of the Freshman year are not well enough acquainted with those of the upper years and there is no better opportunity to overcome this than at such meetings as tonight's. The musical committee will have their one man jazz band on deck and he will render a number of lively selections during the course of the evening.

The executive wish to emphasize that the meeting will commence promptly at the appointed hour 8.15, and urge all members to be on time.

REPRESENTATIVE OF ARTS ENJOYS DANCE

"Bob" Fortune a Guest of Queen's University

Robert V. Fortune of Arts '25 has returned from Kingston Ontario where he acted as the representative from the Arts Undergraduate Society of McGill to the Annual Dinner and Dance of the Arts Society at Queen's University and reports to the Daily a most wonderful time.

The dance was held in Grant Hall on Wednesday night and was one of the biggest and most successful events of the social life of the University. Jardine's Orchestra of Toronto supplied the music. The big hall, was decorated with the three colors of Queens and favors in abundance were given to the dancers.

Fortune says that the ladies of Queens, especially the ones he met, were exceptionally good dancers and exceedingly fair to look upon.

The Arts dinner was also held in Grant Hall on Thursday evening and about three hundred and fifty guests were present. Dr. Sandwell, late of the Economics Department of McGill, and now Professor of English Literature of Queens, was one of the chief speakers.

When Fortune arose to respond to the toast to the Sister Universities, the entire body of diners rose and gave the McGill and Toronto yells. In response to this the two representatives from McGill and Toronto gave the Queens yell.

Fortune was entertained at the home of Dr. Bruce Taylor, principal of Queens.

"The perfect cream in the perfect container"

(This is the way one user describes Williams and the new Hinge-Cap)

Williams Shaving Cream

Men buy Williams expecting to find their main satisfaction in the Hinge-Cap. But when they first use the cream they get an equally pleasant surprise. The heavier lather, the greater thoroughness with which it softens the beard, make a hit at once. Then, Williams lather lubricates the skin so that the razor fairly "glides" the hairs off. And last, there's that delightful after-care of the skin. Truly, you'll find that with the Hinge-Cap Williams is "miles ahead." It's a pure cream without coloring matter of any kind.

$250 in prizes

For the best sentence of ten words or less on the value of the Williams Hinge-Cap, we offer the following prizes: 1st prize $100; 2nd prize $50; two 3rd prizes, $25 each; two 4th prizes, $10 each; six 5th prizes, $5 each. Any undergraduate or graduate student is eligible. If two or more persons submit identical slogans deemed worthy of prizes, the full amount of the prize will be awarded to each. Contest closes at midnight March 14, 1924. Winners will be announced as soon thereafter as possible. Submit any number of slogans but write on one side of paper only, omitting name, address, college and class at top of each sheet. Address letters to Contest Editor, The J. B. ## ONE OF THE WORLD'S DREAMERS

In the death of ex-president Wilson of the United States the great nation to the south of us loses one of its most notable citizens. His life was one that should be of interest to anyone, but most of all to the college student, for he was himself intimately connected with university life and student opinion as a college professor for many years before he entered the political field. There his high ideals and his deep sense of duty, as he saw it, led him into stormy situations, but an iron will, buttressed by the righteousness of his cause, kept him firmly in his opinions despite the torrents of adverse criticism which were heaped upon him from all sides. In an effort to save humanity from the devastation and suffering of war he attempted to form a world league which at the time of his death is gradually entering into an era of strength and wholesome influence. His actions constitute a worthy model for the shaping of a young life. When you can stand by the things you believe to be right, remain firm against all criticism and boldly face the consequences—your character is like that of the dead president. Like the great Lincoln, the great Wilson might say "I am not bound to win but I am bound to be true—I am not bound to succeed but I am bound to live up to what light I have—I must stand with anybody that stands right; stand with him while he is right and part with him when he is wrong."

CONDENSED COMMENT

The present week will be featured by several intercollegiate contests, starting with the hockey game against the University of Montreal to-morrow night. On Friday and Saturday McGill and Toronto mermen will fight for honours in water polo and swimming and it is a certainty that these events will be well worth seeing. The University B. W. and F. assault will also be staged and, with the intercollegiate contests on the horizon, the men need all possible encouragement. You are asked to give your hearty support on every possible occasion. Help the Red and White in the world of athletics.

THE CULTURAL AND THE PROFESSIONAL

Antioch College Head Proposes New System

The following article appeared recently in the "Harvard Crimson" on the subject of "Amalgamation or Separation" of cultural and professional studies:

In any contemplation of present-day education, it is well to begin with the assumption—certainly not a mistaken one—that present educational methods are far from perfect. Consequently, any suggestion for improving them deserves consideration, and most especially when it comes from one like President Morgan who has actually experimented with education at Antioch College. President Morgan proposes a six or eight-year course, in which the cultural and professional elements would be blended, instead of the sharp division between these two elements now existing at almost all universities.

If an unbroken stretch of eight years would not prove too appalling for the ordinary student, there might be many advantages. The present system which completes a four-year, academic unit, before beginning with professional training suits very well the needs of those who do not intend to enter a profession, and of those who do not know which profession they will follow. But the eight-year plan includes a preliminary general foundation equally necessary for every profession; and moreover allows plenty of time in which to select some particular one. In this way it has at least all the advantages of the existing plan as far as the professions are concerned.

There are, however, a considerable number of men who do not want a professional training or even a pre-professional education, but who are perfectly satisfied with four years of more or less indiscriminate browsing about in courses which happen to appeal to them. Any program which seeks to standardize academic education is opposed to its true spirit, which permits the utmost freedom and individuality, even though brilliant scholarship or profound knowledge do not always result.

And is it true that the "sharp cleavage between the periods of cultural and professional training causes a

ARTS '23 TO HOLD REUNION NEXT WEEK

Last Year's Class Will Return to Halls of Learning

The members of the class of Arts '23 are planning to reunite at the Arts dinner, which is being held on the evening of this month. Many of last year's Seniors are still in college, at least fifty per cent. of the class showing sufficient desire for further knowledge to return to the halls of learning. Many of the men are in Law, the Faculty of Post Graduate Studies, and Medicine and as a reunion has not been held since graduation last May, members of the permanent executive suggested that this would be a favorable time to meet again, and to discuss plans for the future. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Arts inner committee, and it is stated that there will be an allotment left at the office of the Janitor. Further details may be obtained from the class executive and all who are planning to go are asked to notify Dave Cowan at the head office of the Sun Life Assurance Company. The officers hope that as many as possible will be in attendance on the evening of the eleventh. The banquet starts at eight o'clock and a separate table will be provided for last year's graduates.

professional student to lose all his cultural habits while he concentrates on preparation for the serious business of life?" It is hard to define "cultural habits," but presumably, they are the life-long habits which the College is now supposed to create. If the professional student loses these habits during his severe training, the college has not succeeded; and the remedy for this is not an amalgamation of college and graduate school, but an improvement in college methods.

The eight-year course might be relied upon to give a better balance to the professional education than now exists; naturally, if eight years are available, to be planned as a unit, a better arrangement, a more far-seeing distribution can be chosen. But life as at present most men can devote only four years to college, and even professional students are not always decided about their careers, the two-unit system must remain the more flexible, the more adaptable to a student's requirements.

WRESTLERS' ELIMINATIONS YESTERDAY

Three Fast Bouts Held at Strathcona Hall

MEET SATURDAY

Semi-finals to be Held To-morrow at Five O'clock

Yesterday, afternoon, beginning at five o'clock, three interesting wrestling bouts were held in Strathcona Hall, in the eliminations for the Collegiate Meet on Saturday recently started by the B. W. and F. Club. Helling, Phelps, and Howes were yesterday's winners. The first bout was in the 110-pound class, and the other two in the 135-pound class. There are eight classes altogether, including all weights, and all classes are represented in the Wrestling Club. The eliminations will be continued to-morrow at the same hour and the same place. The Fencing Club has also started its eliminations, having had one bout, which was between Kne and Langman. The former won. The fencing eliminations will continue Thursday in Strathcona Hall at five o'clock.

There was an extraordinary large attendance yesterday at the Wrestling Club, and there was a lively and enthusiastic practice as well as the regular bouts. The wrestlers are getting into fine form, and an interesting contest is promised in the clash between the only two contestants in the 175-pound class, Rumble and Coppel. Rumble of course is the outstanding wrestler of the club, but he will find a worthy opponent in Coppel, who, although much shorter than he, is wiry and heavy, weighing about a hundred and eighty-five pounds. If the students at large take as much interest as the members of the B. W. and F. Club, there will be an extremely good collegiate meet next Saturday (February 8th). This is to be in the hall room of the Union at eight o'clock.

In the first bout yesterday Helling of second year Commerce secured two falls on Bernstein of third year Medicine within five minutes. The loser succeeded in getting out of several very dangerous head chanceries, but his inexperience was his downfall. He displayed good wrestling form. The second bout was between Phelps of first year Arts, who secured one fall on his opponent, Krakowski of first year Science in six and a half minutes. Despite the strength of Krakowski, Phelps was able to keep out of danger through his superior knowledge of the game.

STUDENT AT QUEEN'S ON EXTRA-MURALS

Giving of Degree to Outsiders Unfair to Regular Students

SAME REWARD
Members of Summer Course Rated Equally With Arts Students

In the recent Arts Issue of the Queen's Journal, an article appeared by a student signing himself "The Old Man with a Broom," in which a sharp protest was voiced against the system of extra-mural studies, which has been instituted at Queen's for the convenience of outsiders who are unable to take the regular Arts course. The article is quoted below in full:—

"Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden and I will give you a candy-coated sheep skin; and there shall be none other like unto it, not even a correspondence school diploma. My professors shall serve you night and day, nor shall they know any rest from marking your interminable essays. They shall neglect their regular classes for your sakes, and to your requirements shall their courses be warped. I will brook no interference in your diligent search after Book Learning. For I say unto you, oh Extra-Murals, ye are the cream of the University Students, and on your behalf, I have sworn a mighty oath; that all the Faculty shall bow the knee before you, and become even as your slaves. I have spoken. I am the Spirit of the Extra-Murals."

A feeling is abroad in Arts, for Arts alone is smitten, that the Arts Degree, is being cheapened, as a result of the over stimulation of the Extra-Mural branch of the Faculty. It is, and has ever been the Pride of Queen's, that her Graduates have been able to do things worth-while in life. The outside world and the Grads. of yesteryear look to us to uphold that great tradition—the tradition of the all-round university man.

It is without doubt, just as important for a student to learn the business of doing things, the business of leadership, as to maintain the required academic standing. These are not to be found in Text Books, but only upon the campus and within the various organizations of the College. Moreover this mastery over the technique of leadership can not be picked up in the one session which the Extra-Mural is compelled to attend, but only with three or four years, of progressive student activity. Nor can the Summer School fill this need, for there, nothing is done; there is only personal sport, impersonal picnics, and even honeymoons. The Motto seems to be: "Let us work and have a good time, for to-morrow we must go back to Teaching." Teaching is the only topic of general interest. It simply amounts to this, that the Summer School is a Convention of School Teachers on Picnic, which produces in the long run, a class of people holding University Degrees, who are out school teachers. In the narrow sense of the word, instead of being persons of the broader visions and greater capability usually associated with such a degree.

But the habit of doing things cannot be acquired without first paying the price. That price is faithful service to the Alma Mater and the hours spent in that service. This sacrifice of ability, time, and interest, has always been made, and is gladly made by all who attend this university. It is all for Queen's and the greatness that is Queen's is the reward.

But what of the Extra-Murals? Bluntly, the Extra-Mural receives the same degree as the regularly attending student, and while the former proceeds towards the degree he is able to earn his living. The average man in Arts work hard all summer, (at least 4 months), to earn enough to support 7 months intra-mural attendance. The Extra-Mural, provided he comes to Summer School at all, does so for 6 weeks only and with the saving of 10 months' earnings.

The purpose of the founders of the Summer School and Extra-Mural System, is appreciated as that of a helping hand held out to struggling persons who wished to better their Academic standing but who could not finance the full regular session, but there are such a vast number taking the Extra-Mural method that one cannot readily imagine all to be in such a position. Is it because the Extra-Mural method is the easier way? A matter of mere expediency, the half-rate on the royal road to learning?

In this Arts Issue it seems proper that we should look to our own house. Are there to be two degrees in Arts, one representing a University Training, real, in every sense, whose possessor will have acquired broader sympathies, deeper understandings, and a mental aptitude for any undertaking; and another obtained at a bargain rate, whose holder will be a pedagogical monstrosity, functioning with the brain only, and not with the heart and the understanding?

If then, there is nothing more to an Arts degree, than so many classes, by all means, let us go home, abandon the association and consultations with

ATHLETIC CLUB MANAGERS MEET

Discussion of Schedules and Equipment for 1924-25

The managers of the various Athletic clubs met yesterday afternoon in the Union. Attendance was rather poor, only eight or nine managers being present.

Major Forbes asked those present to see to the appointing or election of managers for 1924-25 as soon as possible as he wished to get in touch with the new men as soon as possible.

The question of rotary schedules was next brought up. A rotary schedule is one which is of more or less permanent form. The two teams scheduled to play the first game this year, next year would be placed at the end of the scheduled and the last scheduled game moved up to the place of the first one, and similarly for the following years. It is planned to put all Intercollegiate athletics on the rotary schedule system in the near future. It is claimed this will eliminate confusion of dates and avoid having several contests clash as the B. W. & F. and the Swimming meets do this year. The managers of each club were asked to draw up a suitable rotary schedule, to be submitted to Major Forbes office as soon as possible. The Athletic Manager also requested that the Managers leave at his office a complete inventory of all equipment belonging to their respective clubs, together with requests for new equipment.

The meeting was closed after a lively discussion as to whether the Athletic Board should defray part of the expense involved in having the various Athletic clubs pictures in the Annual. Also whether the Board should purchase prints of these pictures and give them to the players. His question will probably be brought before the next meeting of the Athletic Board.

R.V.H. INTERNS TO TACKLE MED. SENIORS

To-night, at 9.30, on the Campus Rink, the strong aggregation of the resident physicians of the Royal Victoria Hospital will play a picked team from the senior medical class. A red-hot battle is insured although there is no hard feeling among the men, there is an old score to be settled as last year game ended in a 3-3 tie.

Dr. Ross, the old rugby star, has left no stone unturned as the manager of the "Vic" bunch. He has a stellar line up for the game, and the Senior Medics must do more than their best in order to get the decision. The medical seniors were going strong up to 2 weeks ago when 4 of their best players were put out of the run by the Athletic Board for not having reported for the physical examination. Their manager, however, has picked out a peppy team from among the examined members of the senior class and he is quite confident of victory to-night.

GEORGE GRIMSON WON SNOWSHOERS' TRIALS

Yesterday afternoon, the cross-country snowshoe race was run off over the Serpentine road, a course of about three miles. George Grimson came in first, covering the distance in 21 minutes and 31 seconds. He was followed by Croll, whose time was 22 minutes and 22 seconds. Third place went to Walsh who went over the course in 22 minutes and 23 seconds.

This race was the final event in the University snowshoe trials. As yet the final selection of the team which will represent McGill at Dartmouth has not been made. However, it is expected that the men who will wear the red and white on the trip to the States will be chosen to-day.

"PILL ROLLERS" HOLD ANNUAL SLEIGH DRIVE

To the tunes of Jingle Bells the merry "Pill Rollers" will again have their sleigh drive this year. The Pharmaceutical Society has arranged an excellent program and Pharmacy students are assured a most enjoyable evening, filled with music, eats and a two hour sleigh drive around the mountains.

This event has always been looked forward to by the students and will undoubtedly in many ways previous sleigh drives.

The sleighs, accommodating about sixty couples, will leave the New Medical Building Wednesday February 12 at 8.30 p.m. returning about 11 o'clock to the Assembly Hall where refreshments will be served and the light fantastic will be indulged in. All Pharmaceutical students are requested to turn out.

our professors, which it would seem, has become of little import, and the fellowship of our brothers in other faculties, and as we go about our daily task of earning bread, bubble the words of learning as found on sheet x73 y 48. But, above all let us hear in mind that "A university is an Alma Mater knowing her children one by one, not a foundry"—nor yet a correspondence school.

HOCKEY CONTEST TO-MORROW NIGHT

McGill Seniors and University of Montreal in Second Clash

There will be a senior hockey game to-morrow night between McGill and the University of Montreal. This is to be an exhibition game for the Deaubien cup. The McGill men are now all in good form, and are expected to make a fine showing. McGill students are urged to turn out to support their team; the importance of rosters' support cannot possibly be exaggerated. It is a disgraceful fact that the students of this university have not been supporting their hockey team nearly well enough this winter, and Manager Puddicombe believes that the last game in this city would have turned quite differently, if the McGill men had given it even respectable support.

On Thursday evening there will be a city-league game with St. Lambert. A resume of the games McGill has played so far this year in the Intercollegiate League follows:—

On January 12th Varsity beat McGill by a score of 8 to 1.

On January 23rd McGill and Montreal played a draw, 4 to 4.

On February 2nd Varsity again beat McGill, with a score of 4 to 2, this time at Toronto.

One of the most interesting features of the league is the Deaubien Cup offered for the winner of the set of three games, played or to be played between McGill and the University of Montreal.

"HELLO" IS IMPOLITE AND ALSO USELESS

Cleveland telephone authorities are making an earnest drive to develop "phonetic" courtesy and efficiency, if one can believe the story recently received here, which states that a great effort is being made to discourage the use and uselessness of the word "Hello" in telephonic conversations. They desire that the recipients of telephone calls merely announce their names or the name of the firm and then listen to the caller.

Possibly they will receive greater co-operation from subscribers by reason of the fact that "Hello" really means, "Oh, go chase a wolf."

According to these etymologists, the derivation of the word "Hello" is from the cry "Au loup" (to the wolf), used by French and French-speaking Norman-English hunters, when they sighted a wolf.

The French pronounced it "A loo." The English, using the aspirate "H", made it "Ha, loo." The cry has been used by hunters up to date when a fox is sighted, and by Americans, generally as a personal salutation.

So "Hello" really means "Oh, go chase a wolf," which, it must be admitted, is scarce a polite form of salutation either over the phone or personally.

VICTORIAS BEATEN 8-1 BY JUNIORS

beaten the defence, with a shot from close in. During the next few minutes the play was mostly at the Victoria end of the rink. Roncarelli made a neat rush, outmanoeuvred Town and Mahu and then passed to Abbott who scored. The next few minutes consisted mostly of individual rushes by Cameron and Roncarelli, the former succeeding in scoring a long shot which bounced off Morgan's pads into the nets. Coach Shaughnessy put on all his substitutes. Vics were very slow in getting away from behind their own goals. The red and white were outskating their opponents and only occasionally would "Hank" Johnson have to stop a shot which generally came from far outside the defence. When the whistle sounded for half time McGill were leading by 3-0.

The second period started with a rush, the game being much more even as all three substitutes for the red and white were on the ice. Roncarelli and scored. The Vics seemed to have suddenly come to life. Rennie and Becker made some sensational rushes and for the first time Johnson had to really stay awake. Eveleigh, Mielos and Abbott replaced, Gordon, Boon, and McDonald and with this change Victoria's momentary glory vanished. Cameron immediately scored after passing both Town and Mahu. Abbott scored on a long shot about fifteen seconds later. Eveleigh was banished for heavy body-checking. Victorias soon took advantage of this and Becker passed the McGill defence and scored their only goal. Within three minutes Cameron scored again for McGill. With five minutes left the play became faster than any previous moments, the puck remaining at the Victoria end. Cameron scored again for the red and white thirty seconds before the final whistle. The game ended with McGill leading by 8-1.

LECTURES ON PROBLEMS OF SOCIAL WORK

DR. WM. HEALY
Will Address First Meeting on the Subject "The Juvenile at Large"

The first of a series of lectures on social problems, held by the McGill School for Social Workers, will be given to-morrow evening in the Physics Building, when Doctor William Healy, Director of the Judge Baker Foundation, will speak on the subject, "The Juvenile at Large."

The meetings in this series, of course will be open to all University students, admittance being granted upon the production of regular class cards. They will be held in the Physics building every Wednesday at eight o'clock and will be addressed by leading authorities on settlement work and social problems.

This year, five outstanding directors in institution work on this continent have been secured by Doctor Dawson as speakers.

Dr. William Healy, who is to give the first lecture of the series to-morrow night, is a leading research student in his field. He has been associated with the Juvenile Courts of Chicago and Boston, and is the author of the most authoritative books on juvenile behaviour. At present he is Director of the Judge Baker Foundation. On Thursday afternoon at a round-table conference in the Windsor Hotel, Dr. Healy will speak to social workers on his methods and results.

Following is a detail list of the lectures in this series:

HISTORICAL CLUB MEETS TO-NIGHT

Both of these papers should attract particular attention in view of the recent Francis Parkman Celebration. They will be followed by a discussion in which the members are asked to take part.

The Historical Club is the second oldest club at McGill (the Mining and Metallurgical Club being the oldest); it was founded in 1897 by Dr. Colby formerly Head of the History Department at McGill. Ever since it has met regularly at different private houses. The patron of the club is Sir Arthur Currie, the honorary president is Professor Basil Williams, the honorary vice-president is Prof. W. T. Waugh, and the president is Laurence Chalmers Tombs of the fourth year Arts.

The next meeting after to-night is a joint meeting with the Historical Club of the Royal Victoria College at the R.V.C. on February 19th. On April 1st an open meeting is to be held with the Economics Club, the president of which is also a member of the Historical Club. The last meeting of the year will be at the Union on April 15th, and will be in the nature of a dinner with some speaker of distinction and the election of officers for next year.

The Victoria team were badly handicapped all through as they did not have a single substitute, all their men played full time. Becker and Rennie put up a stirring game for the Victoria team while Cameron and Abbott were the outstanding players on the ice.

The line-up:
Victoria Goal McGill
Morgan . . . . . Johnson
Town . . . . . Roncarelli
Mahu . . . . . Cameron
Rennie . . . . . Abbott
Adams . . . . . Eveleigh

Messrs. Ryan and McLean handled the game very efficiently.

FRESHMEN LOSE TO SOPHS. IN HOCKEY

R.V.C. '26 Win With Score of 10-1

Yesterday in the Hollow Rink the R.V.C. Sophomores defeated the first year team with the score of 10-1. This was the second of the R.V.C. interclass hockey games.

The game started at 5 o'clock with Miss M. Pennington as time keeper. From the face off the game was a fast one, Miss Turley shooting the first goal after a quick run down the ice. Miss Stocking did good work on left wing, passing the puck to Miss Turley who scored again a few minutes after the first goal had been shot.

The first year then decided that the Sophomores were not going to have it all their way. Miss Cameron took the puck on a pass and shot a goal for the freshmen. After some hard playing a bad upset occurred in front of the first year net, and in the mix-up, Miss Stocking scored again for the Sophomores. The first period ended with the score of 3-1 in favor of second year.

Miss Stocking opened the second period by scoring for the second year. The freshmen made some good tries during this period but could not penetrate the second year defense. Miss McKean, the first year goaler, stopped some well directed shots.

The second period ended 8-1 and the first year team did not succeed in scoring again during the game which ended with the score 10-1 in favor of second year. For the first year, Miss G. Cameron did exceptional work as centre, while Miss Martin starred on defense. Miss Turley and Miss Stocking did the scoring for second year.

The line-up was as follows:

Second Year	Goal	First Year
I. Allen . . . . .	M. McKean
L. Argue . . . . .	M. Millar
R. Turley . . . . .	M. Martin
M. Gilman . . . . .	G. Cameron

THE CAPITOL

Screened in the very heart of the historic scenes of ancient Rome which lend it a charm of beauty and a realism which no amount of clever fakery could have given it, is the film version of Hall Caine's dramatic novel "The Eternal City" which is featured at the Capitol this week.

The story has its setting in the war years and goes through that period of transition when following the great struggle, Italy was in the throes of socialism from which she was rescued by the black shirt Fascist. The tale is woven about the exploits of the followers of Mussolini and crystallizes about the life of Roma and Rossi, companions of childhood, whom the war separates weaves into their existence experiences and trials that militate against their reunion and rather serves to accentuate their estrangement.

The misunderstanding of one another's motives is fostered by Count Bonelli who seeks to further his own ends to assure the success of the social uprising which he has espoused.

Barbara La Marr in particularly good in the emotional role of Roma and Bert Lytell satisfactory interpreters that of the patriot Rossi. Lionel Barrymore is effective as Count Bonelli, the head of the revolutionists.

The scenery alternates from the picturesque Italian countryside, to views of Rome's famous monuments; and noteworthy among the "shots" is one of a Fascist meeting in the historic Coliseum.

Dixie Guard, prima donna, renders popular and operatic numbers in very pleasant fashion, and selected by the Capitol Orchestra, a Mermaid comedy and Pathe News complete the program.

THE IMPERIAL

Montreal theatre-goers are being treated to another excellent show at the Imperial this week, the bill including some rather original and amusing acts. The Pathé News reel proved very interesting as it gives one a very realistic picture of the late Director Lenin of Soviet Russia.

The first act on the vaudeville program was "A Comic Circus" by the Cavana Trio. This included a horpist, a very clever contortionist and a humorous contortionist who brought some good laughs.

The next item on the bill was a good comedy playlet entitled "The Wrecker." It was based upon the prevalent unpopularity of the automobile in the law, and although it was rather overdone, the excellent cast gave the audience many a good laugh.

Annette, "The Little Girl with a Big Voice," sang very much better than the ordinary round of vaudeville vocalists, her repertoire of popular and plantation songs, being very vigorously applauded.

Lee Rose and Katherine Moon and their "Stepping Sweeties" supply some very excellent dancing. The imitate the star that she most adores and the costumes worn by the "Sweeties" deserving some comment. Each girl endeavours to mimes. Although it is rather impossible to recognize these stars, their act is very good.

The last piece of vaudeville is a comedy skit by Creedon and Davies, the comedians of the fat man bringing roars of laughter from the house.

The show winds up with a picture, "The Delvin Pool," which all those who aspire to be speed fans should endeavour to see this before he classifies himself as such. He is one of the old sort in as much as it contains a great deal of action, mingled with comedy and treacherous villainy. The film concerns a wild motor ride from San Francisco to New York in seven days, constantly hampered by the usual gang of villains.

The outstanding act seems to be that supplied by Rose and Moon but they are all excellent and for anyone that seeks amusement and a good laugh, the Imperial is certainly the place to go.

He was a very keen young business man. He had written a note and stuck on his door—"Out to lunch, back in a half hour." Then as an after thought struck him he added "Been gone twenty-five minutes already."—Tid Bits.

M.S.P.E. WIN FIRST MATCH IN HOCKEY

Victory Over M.A.A.A. at Opponents' Rink

SCORE 7-0

Miss Helen Roberts Stars for School at Centre

The encounter between the M. S. P. E. and M. A. A. A. hockey teams last night at the M. A. A. A. rink resulted in a decisive victory for the M. S. P. E. when they scored a 7-0 win over their opponents. This was their first league game of the season and opened brilliantly while Capt. Helen Roberts who played a stellar game throughout, scored the first point after a lone rush up the ice. Miss Roberts continued her good work netting four of the seven goals while the Misses D. McArthur, M. Robertson and J. Plumtree each accounted for one. Miss McTaggart, the McGill goal tender was seldom called upon to save but Miss T. Epstein of the M. A. A. A. sextette defended her nets with great coolness, saving many apparently impossible shots.

Capt. G. Gallery and J. Collins started for the Home Team. The M. A. A. A. team work was superior to that of McGill, who relied upon individual work and easily outskated their opponents. The shooting of the home team was weak and shows their lack of practice but there is much good material and as the season advances the team should make a better showing.

First Period

Miss Roberts secured the puck and after brilliant rush up the ice, found the corner of the M. A. A. A. nets with a well-placed shot. A few minutes later, following the example set by her Captain, Miss Plumtree scored the second goal of the game. M. A. A. A. rallied and carried the puck towards the McGill nets but the defence proved too strong and the puck travelled back to the home goal, where Miss Roberts, on a pass from Miss McArthur, again slipped the puck past the goalie.

Miss Gordon replaced Miss McArthur. The play became more general at this point and the checking of both teams was good preventing any further scoring in this period.

Period ended with score:—M. S. P. E. 3 M. A. A. A. 0.

Second Period

Miss Robertson, on a pass from Miss Roberts, scored, netting the fourth goal for the Red and White. The M. A. A. A. defence stopped a number of rushes and Miss Collins after a mix-up in centre ice secured and shot from without the defence but Miss McTaggart saved. Miss Gordon cleared and after an individual rush, outwitted the M. A. A. A. defence but failed to score. Miss Silcock and Miss Gullery then, with a pretty piece of combination carried the rubber back down the ice but lost possession to Miss Roberts, who again tallied after a brilliant piece of stick-handling.

Period ended with score:—M. S. P. E. 5 M. A. A. A. 0.

Third Period

Miss McArthur, replacing Roberts at centre, scored on a pass from Miss Robertson. Again the M. A. A. A. team rallied, Lazard starting. Play became more open and both goal tenders were called upon to save repeatedly. Miss McLaughlin replaced Miss Silcock and Miss Roberts came on for Miss McArthur. Clarkson secured and after a rush up the ice passed to Miss Roberts, who sent a wicked shot for the nets but Miss Epstein saved. Miss Roberts then scored on the rebound.

The M. A. A. A. team fought hard to penetrate their opponents defence. Period ended with score:—M. S. P. E. 7 M. A. A. A. 0.

CLASS PIN DESIGN

CHOSEN BY R.V.C. '26

At a class meeting held yesterday in Room 2 R.V.C., the Sophomore year definitely chose a design for their class pins and rings which are to be ready in the near future. The President, Miss Secora, opened the meeting and passed around for the inspection of those present, several suggested designs. The choice was made by show of hands, the design chosen being that suggested by the executive.

The Secretary then took the names of those wanting rings and of those wanting pins, the latter being obtainable either in enamel and gold or silver gilt. It was announced that a list would be posted on the notice

MCGILL MAN BACK FROM O.A.C. BALL

Ted Newton Represented University at Jubilee Dance

Theodore F. Newton, Editor of this year's McGill Annual has returned from Guelph, Ontario, where he represented McGill at the Jubilee Centennial of the Ontario Agricultural College and Macdonald Hall. Newton, when interviewed had nothing but the highest of praise for the treatment which he received as McGill representative.

The Ontario Agricultural College and Macdonald Hall are affiliated with the University of Toronto and are situated on the outskirts of the thriving little Western Ontario city of Guelph—a city of about 40,000 population. Macdonald Hall is a girls' educational institute has become famed for its courses in Household Science and Dietetics and draws its membership from the best homes of the thickly populated Western Ontario district.

The college was founded in 1874 and the institutions which they represent across their breasts.

A large Toronto orchestra performed from a raised dais in the centre of the hall at one side, Hugo flags suspended from the lofty ceiling drooped with a load of vari-coloured balloons. After tasty refreshments had been served to the last supper sitting—and there were five of them—to accommodate the huge crowd, roll confetti was generously distributed and the flags unrolled while balloons fell to every corner of the ballroom.

A full-faced twinkling moon was projected through the softened lights on the walls of the room during the frequent moonlight numbers. Towards the end of the program gratings high up in the ceiling opened and a veritable snowstorm of white confetti descended whirling hither and thither by currents of air from cleverly secreted electric fans near the ceiling which also caused movement among numerous balloon airships over the heads of the dancers. This year marks the Jubilee celebration of the institution.

The Annual Ball of the college which retains its traditional name of Conversant only through the introduction of a grand march before the regular dance program of the evening commences this year thus took on a more than usually important aspect.

The Jubilee Conversant held on Friday night was undoubtedly one of the great events in the history of the College. From four to five hundred couples filled the huge hall including in its number many graduates who return once each year to renew memories of their Alma Mater.

The crowd was composed of many Varsity undergraduates as well as other visitors for seemingly by mutual agreement Macdonald Hall girls invite "outside" boys and O. A. C. boys ask "outside" girls.

Varsity sent representatives from each college of the University; Queen's and McGill sent one representative each. Invisible sweepers swept a seemingly never-ending supply of confetti down upon the heads of the dancing throng through the hanging streamers until after a great length of time the supply of four barrels of confetti had become exhausted. After a program of twenty dances had been completed a very wonderful party came to an end.

On Saturday the festivities were continued with a tea dance in the afternoon and the presentation of a play by the students in the evening.

LAW '25 DEFEATED ARTS '25 AT HOCKEY

The hockey team of Law '25 defeated Arts '25 last night, with a 3-2 score. Playing was slow, as neither side had had much opportunity for practice, but several men were in good form. Hutcheson, the Law defence man, played a star game, and Wickham did a lot of fast work. Miller and Armstrong were the outstanding Arts men. Both goalers were out of their jobs, and stopped several mean shots. This is the first year that Law has entered a team in inter-collegiate hockey, but results seem to justify its maintenance. Don Puddlecombe refereed.

Mr. Martineau, the eminent divine, and his peerless one-man orchestra furnished a little music for the occasion. Teams as follows:

Miss Secora asked if each member of the class would pay a fee of $1.75 to the Secretary as soon as possible. This amount includes the "Daily" fee of $1.50 and a class fee of 25 cents for a debt incurred by the year.

IMPRESSIVE ADDRESS BY SIR ARTHUR

increase in our country's population?" In ten years Canada's production had shown remarkable increase; products of the soil had increased by 70 per cent, industrial products 250 per cent. Keeping pace with this was the great increase in bank deposits, clearings, and loans. "All this increase represents American capital. Ten years ago there was little but British capital in the country. I for one don't like to see this change."

Reading the figures relating to the national debt and its increase, the speaker said, "I have quoted these figures to get you to consider thoughtfully this question. Every man who gives it consideration must come to the conclusion that this headlong race to ruin must not continue."

"The methods of government of years ago will not do to-day. I do not say that to affect change, the whole thing must be wiped out, but an improvement must be made."

"That parochial provincialism, which the speaker, which in wartime had been thought to have been abolished, still existed. Barriers of race and class are still being erected."

A few years ago the government of Ontario became a class government. Everywhere factions of socialism are arising the people against capitalism. "How are we to deal with the question of the national debt. Surely these internal problems give every man food for thought."

There are great outside problems. Canada's complete autonomy among the British states has been universally recognized. But at the same time she has assumed a new responsibility. The minor problems of all dominions affect us to some degree. The empire problems are problems, which cannot be pushed aside, but which must be dealt with in a statesman-like manner.

More important, stated the speaker, are the foreign affairs. Before the war, as a factor in foreign affairs, Canada was next to nothing. "In my opinion Canada is not yet quite a nation. But we do occupy to-day a place of importance, a place from which we cannot withdraw."

Speaking of General Smuts prominent part in discussions of imperial affairs, and particularly regarding the Ruhr question, Sir Arthur said, "I as a Canadian was very sorry Canada was silent when South Africa was speaking so loudly."

"I am not one of those who believe that the millennium has come—that the world will see war no more" and the speaker showed how the horrors and terrors of another conflict would surpass those of the last. "The economic strain has shifted from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and we have come to a realization that our borders lie within the danger zone. Here is another problem, and not a little one."

"The onward sweep of history is continuous, irresistible and in its current all the nations of the world are swept."

"It is only necessary for me to mention these things; it is only necessary for you to consider them, and you will realize that what Canada to-day needs most is men."

"The high standard of education in Britain has meant the continuity of government. For a thousand years they have been men of Oxford and of Cambridge who have directed the government of Britain."

Everyone must realize, stated the speaker, that a great many of the troubles since the armistice "have resulted from ignorance in high places." In Canada many ignorant people vote and not always are the best men sent to parliament. But the body of civil servants can be controlled, and it was with regard to the civil service that Sir Arthur wished to put forward suggestions along the line of constructive criticism.

Beyond a certain point, he stated, this staff cannot be cut down. A great body of civil servants, Sir Arthur claimed, were performing mechanical duties, they could make no independent decisions; they were bound by statutes. Another class were doing administrative, technical work of an advanced nature and had to use a certain amount of discretion. The decision in political questions is not entrusted to a capable, efficient body of men. "To-day," stated Sir Arthur, "Canada has no men capable of forming such a body." I use the word political in its highest sense—referring to highest national duty—and in my opinion what Canada most needs is a political staff to deal with policy rather than administration.

The principle underlying the establishment of Ministers of the Crown does not work out in practice. To emphasize his meaning, Sir Arthur referred to the staff of an army. It had the best engineer, the best gunner, the best general officer, and so on.

The men were thinkers as well as administrators; they formulated policies which often were put into practice.

The Prime Minister is largely occupied with routine matters, which do little good except to his "own pocket." "I am speaking very plainly, you see," said the principal, "but I am speaking to men of unbiased political opinions." It is evident, he continued, that men in politics to-day consider service to their party rather than service to their country.

"National policy must be within certain limits. It is a mistake to think that a man who has been successful in the business or professional world and who has been elected to parliament, can be placed at the head of a government department and expected to know all about internal, imperial, and foreign matters. As for the department officials, it is almost impossible to expect men trained under rule of thumb to see things in the large."

"We have entered the field of diplomacy. We must have, if not a diplomatic service, a staff having a knowledge of, and capable of handling foreign affairs. We have no such staff to-day."

"When the prime minister went to attend the imperial conferences, he could not find an advisor among his staff. He had to pick a university professor. When Sir Charles Gordon attended the financial conferences, his advisor was not a civil servant. There must be a staff to furnish these advisers."

Again the speaker pointed out that national policy must be confined within certain limits and that it must be continuous and unaffected by party politics. "The present department

ROWING CLUB HOLD DINNER TO-MORROW

New Organization Progressing Very Favourably

The McGill Rowing Club will hold a dinner at six-fifteen to-morrow (Wednesday) in the Union Grill. This affair is quite informal, and outsiders will be very welcome. The occasion furnishes an admirable opportunity for those acquainted with the sport to begin with a group of beginners. Training was started only a week ago. Although the club formed just this year, racing sculls and expert supervision have already been promised for next summer by the Lachine Rowing Club, and one gentleman has offered a new boat-house for the members' use. McGill men will work with the Lachine crews until enough experienced oarsmen for a college eight can be obtained. Meanwhile practices are being held on the six M.A. A. A. machines every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and a coach is on hand at these times to help green hands. A fair number of men turned out, though there is still lots of room and progress has been very satisfactory.

At tomorrow's dinner, the club's present situation and future prospects will be talked over. A couple of veterans from Lachine will be there, to lend a professional atmosphere. Members should try to interest any likely men in the cause, and bring them along. It ends sharp at seven.

system insures continuity of administration, but not of policy. This continuity of policy is particularly essential in the department of Railways and Defense, which need bodies of highly-trained men." Again, national policy must be continuous so as to keep pace with economic progress. The greatest weakness of our present system is Sir Arthur's opinion was evidenced in the enormous reports collected on all occasions. If there were a competent civil service there would be no need of expensive commissions. Another difficulty inseparable from party government lies in the fact that political platforms are made only with the idea of gaining public support. "Canada needs immigrants; the natural resources must be developed, and the national deficits must be met. In the changes of government these great questions are allowed to be neglected and always one or two years are lost a capable political staff would overcome this."

Concluding, Sir Arthur disposed of several criticisms which might be levelled at his suggestions, and showed that university men are given little opportunities in the present civil service. There is little encouragement for ambition or reward for merit. This is the fault of the system. In the old land, a bright young man at Oxford can be assured of a brilliant future in the civil service of his country.

Moving a vote of thanks to the principal, Jack Cleland assured the speaker of the whole-hearted support of the undergraduate body and expressed the hope that Sir Arthur would remain to lead McGill and, through McGill, to lead Canada.
